Introductory.

The progress of the City since our last publication was issued has been such that this edition will be sure to find the welcome that the most complete directory of the series deserves. The natural annual increase of the population of the City is now nearly 1,000, so that there will be found in this volume the names of several hundred new families. There is no question that Alton proper contains to-day no less than 17,000 and including Upper and North Alton, in the neighborhood of 22,000. That this is substantially correct there can be no doubt.

The business growth of the City has been in proportion and an examination will show considerable additions to the list of factories and mercantile establishments. Recognizing the fact that Alton should have as complete a directory as any other city in the country, the publisher has felt it to be his duty to the patrons of the Directory to spare no effort to accomplish that result. The House Directory by streets (pages 309 to 346) will be found to be invaluable to those who desire to know the occupants of any numbered house in the City. The numerical Telephone Directory (Bell, pages 347 to 354. Kinloch, pages 354 to 358) will be a boon to the busy man who wishes to know at a glance who it is desires to talk with him. These improvements are to be found in but few City Directories. A volume might be filled for the purpose of exploiting the advantages of Alton, but the facilities in a business way, and the character of the population is so well understood in all parts of the country that a recital of that character is hardly necessary in dedicating to the public a book that treats of the public.

In the belief that this copy of the Directory will be found the most complete and most accurate of any that has been published, it is submitted for the approval of those to whom it is meant to be of service.
